

Definition of equidistant – says that “If a point is equidistant from two other points (or objects), then it is the same distance from the other two points (or objects).”