

Transitive Property

– says that “If one expression is equal/congruent to a second expression, and that second expression is equal/congruent to a third expression, then the first and third expressions are also equal/congruent.”